revolution in advertising took place in advertising in New York in the 1950s with the creation of the agency Doyle Dane Bernbach (DDB). No relationship to Mike Doyle. People were seeing, for the first time, advertising that didn't insult the intelligence but was also often witty and entertaining. Brilliant campaigns were seen for Volkswagen, Avis, Polaroid, Jamaica and the list goes on. Other agencies followed, producing great work. The wind of change blew many of these companies across the Atlantic to the UK, and London in particular, which had its own claim to fame with the creation of Collett, Dickenson, Pearce (CDP). It was described as producing the best advertising in the world. Many new creative agencies opened, producing work that the public actually enjoyed and had a huge success in the marketplace. Call it the luck of the Irish, or being in the right place at the right time but Mike ended up working for many of these agencies and for some of the legends of the business, too many to mention here. During those 45 years, he produced many award-winning campaigns that also proved to be best sellers. Mike gives his unique insights into some of these outstanding advertising talents with behind-the-scenes stories. All the time having, as he says, "the most fun you can have with your clothes on".

It contains papers on almost 150 onshore and offshore fields in all of the UK's main petroliferous basins. These papers range from look-backs on some of the first-developed gas fields in the Southern North Sea, to papers on fields that have only just been brought into production or may still remain undeveloped, and includes two candidate CO2 sequestration projects. These papers are intended to provide a consistent summary of the exploration, appraisal, development and production history of each field, leading to the current subsurface understanding which is described in greater detail. As such the Memoir will be an enduring reference source for those exploring for, developing, producing hydrocarbons and sequestering CO2 on the UKCS in the coming decades. It encapsulates the petroleum industry's deep subsurface knowledge accrued over more than 50 years of exploration and production.

I, Coriander Nov 09 2021 A stunning story set in seventeenth-century London and the fairy world, from a CARNEGIE MEDAL and COSTA-prizewinning author. The story is told by Coriander, daughter of a silk merchant in 1650s London. Her idyllic childhood ends when her mother dies and her father goes away, leaving Coriander with her stepmother, a widow who is in cahoots with a fundamentalist Puritan preacher. She is shut away in a chest and left to die, but emerges into the fairy world from which her mother came, and where time has no meaning. When she returns, charged with a task that will transform her life, she is seventeen. This is a book filled with enchantments -- a pair of silver shoes, a fairy shadow, a prince transformed into a fox - that contrast with the heartbreaking loss and cruelty of Coriander's life in the real world. With its brilliantly realised setting of old London Bridge, and underpinned by the conflict between Royalists and Puritans, it is a terrific page-turner, involving kidnapping, murder and romance, and an abundance of vivid characters.
